

Project ReEnergize Qualified Air Sealing or Performance Testing Contractor List

Last Updated 10/8/09

NOTE TO HOMEOWNERS: This list is provided for Project ReEnergize qualified contractors to find trained subcontractors to perform Project ReEnergize work. Homeowners are not eligible for Project ReEnergize rebates unless they work directly with a Project ReEnergize contractor. Go to this link to view a list of these contractors: Project ReEnergize Qualified Contractor List

NOTE TO CONTRACTORS: All Project ReEnergize Rebates for attic air sealing, attic insulation, and exterior wall insulation require the following work be performed by a single company or multiple companies from this list :

- 1) Advanced attic air sealing a qualified Project ReEnergize contractor to perform air sealing
- 2) A pre blower door test (to confirm air tightness before Project ReEnergize work is done)
- 3) A post blower door test (to confirm air tightness before Project ReEnergize work is done)
- 4) A depressurization test of certain combustion appliances and fireplaces (to determine if back drafting is likely to occur)

Any contractor can perform insulation services to obtain the rebate; however, advanced air sealing services must be completed by a qualified Project ReEnergize air sealing contractor.

In addition a continuously exhausting fan of at least 50 cfm, rated at one or less is required to be installed in a bathroom unless a mechanical ventilation is already installed in the home. This fan must be installed by an HVAC contractor and/or electrician per local enforcement. You must only use a mechanical contractors who are properly bonded with the Minnesota Department of Labor and Industry. You may only use electricians who are properly licensed through the Minnesota Department of Labor and Industry.

The companies on this list have registered to take the required Project ReEnergize air sealing and/or performance testing course(s) in October. Please verify the company performing the air sealing and/or performance testing has completed their training by obtaining a copy of their Indemnification Form.

The following companies are listed in the county they are located in but may perform work anywhere in the state

If there is an error on your listing send an e-mail to katherinen@bamn.org with the correct information.
